

Gators giving back

The Citrus County Gator Club & the UF Alumni Association celebrated their 10th Annual International Gator Day on May 17th. All over the world, a record 60 Gator Clubs volunteered their time to give back to their local communities with projects ranging from cleaning beaches and roads to working on Habitat for Humanity homes. The Citrus County Chapter has supported the Citrus County Habitat for Humanity Program each year since 2003. The volunteers from the Club this past year were Lori Allen, Secretary; Dwayne Allen, President; and Rob Bingle, President-Elect.

President Dwayne Allen says "It is just a small way that we can give back to our community and support such a worthwhile organization". Habitat is not a give-away program. The prospective owners have to provide 500 sweat equity hours before they can qualify to own a Habitat Home. Habitat for Humanity brings a major change in people lives by allowing them to own decent, affordable homes. The Gator Club is privileged to be able to support this program every year."
